DATE, TIME AND PLACE: July 9, 1992, 4:05 - 4:23pm Helsinki Fair Center, Finland

The President: It is good to see you again. (U)

President Kravchuk: I see you every day on television. The G-7 meeting was covered widely. (U)

The President: I think it went well. There is a spirit of unity. When did you arrive? (U)

President Kravchuk: Two days ago. We were in Brussels and I visited NATO headquarters. I had good discussions with the NACC. I also addressed the World Jewish Congress. (U)

The President: How did that go? (U)

President Kravchuk: The Congress is organized very well. The main topic was the fight against anti-semitism. (U)

The President: Yes, the head of the U.S. is Edgar Bronfman. We like him. (f)
President Kravchuk: I had a long talk with him. He is of Ukrainian origin. He supported the idea of starting businesses in the Ukraine.

The President: They've got plenty of money. You might get him to invest some of that Bronfman money. Well, how are things going? The science and technology center is a high priority for us. We want to get that going.

President Kravchuk: Yes, our parliament has already ratified the trade agreement. Peace Corps training is starting. American businessmen were attracted to the Ukraine after my visit to the U.S. I think that had a good effect.

The President: So many Americans wish you well. You have a good base of people who are interested in your success. I did want to ask when you can accede to NPT. This is a priority for us. I would encourage you to move as soon as possible.

President Kravchuk: It is mainly a matter of timing. The documents are ready. The parliament is starting to consider it. We have already ratified CFE. We have a program now for the ratification of START. As soon as the parliamentary vacation is over in September I have no doubts that we will ratify.

The President: I had a fairly optimistic assessment from President Yeltsin of his visit with you. Do you share that impression?

President Kravchuk: Yes, it went very well.

The President: I had a talk with you about that. We talked about the Crimea.

The President: What flag flies on those ships. I asked President Yeltsin that but I can't remember.

The President: Good. How about the Moldovan problem? We want to see it peacefully resolved without border changes.
The President: Is it a nuclear plant? (U)

The President: The Moldovans called for a multi-national peacekeeping force of neighboring countries? (J)

Secretary Baker: Do you want CSCE approval of that? (J)

Secretary Baker: Would this peacekeeping force go into Transdneistr or just on the river? (J)

The President: What are your thoughts about that? The Bosnian president came in to see me with a heartrending story of the suffering in Bosnia. (J)
The President: How much do you think Milosevic is the problem? Will things get better if he were out of the picture? (§)

The President: The army would have to be forcefully put back or in the face of force, go back. (§)

The President: Are threats enough or are they crazy enough to fight? I ask because the Bosnian president said that if they see muscle they will go away. (§)

The President: There is no simple solution. (§)

President Kravchuk: That is right. We tried to discuss it in Moscow. (§)

The President: Have the Turks been helpful? (§)
The President: I'm afraid we are running out of time. I have to give a speech later on this afternoon but I promise mine will be short. (U)

President Kravchuk: I am very glad to have had this opportunity for a meeting. (U)

The President: I am so pleased. There was great satisfaction with your visit to Washington. We have a keen interest in your success. (U)
