For information, I have today forwarded the following letter to the President.

President George Bush
The White House
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue
Washington, DC

Dear Mr. President:

Based on my very long and broad experience and the Eisenhower precedents, I believe that if I could confer with Saddam Hussein in depth, I could convince him to turn his course of action in a comprehensive manner entirely satisfactory to you, and to the UN, without war.

Therefore, I am moved to respectfully ask whether you would consent to my going to Iraq, as a private citizen, without any authority to negotiate, but with your agreement to confer personally with me upon my return.

If you will permit me to do so, I will then endeavor to obtain a visa for that purpose.

With personal best wishes.

Sincerely yours,

Harold E. Stassen
